

ABSTRACT

The present invention relates to a pharmaceutical composition for the treatment of wounds containing blood plasma 5 or serum and a method for treating wounds effectively by applying said composition to the wound site to normalize the tissue-environment around the site.